The pendantSentry system is designed to help protect vulnerable individuals and provide a means of raising an alarm to a carer or colleague within the building.

This system comprises of portable pendant transmitters which when activated, send a message directly to one or more pagers. The message identifies which transmitter is being operated.

The beauty of this system is its small unobtrusive size, coupled with its ease of use.

Any number of pagers can be used, and any number of transmitters.

It is ideally suited to care environments, where simple but effective alarm call methods are needed.

All equipment conforms to the UK licensing requirements & CE regulations.
